

Juilliard

In 1985, the Jerome L. Greene Foundation established Juilliard's first major endowed scholarship fund to support students in the Dance, Drama, and Music divisions. The foundation's impactful matching opportunity is an extension of its long-standing relationship with Juilliard.

Juilliard believes that no young artist should be denied access to the world-class education we offer for economic reasons. With more than 90 percent of our students eligible to receive financial aid, scholarship funds are critical in enabling us to provide meaningful assistance to all students with demonstrated need. The amount of support offered is often the most important factor for a student in deciding whether they will be able to attend.

"A scholarship is an empowerment and a statement of belief in a young artist's potential. Scholarships do more than help talented students cover costs—they reinforce the value of the arts and of artists, deeming them worthy of investment and essential to our progress as a society."
